The students received valuable feedback from professors and industry experts, helping them refine their research and presentation skills. Some papers were appreciated for their originality, clarity, and practical applications.

Outcomes and Achievements:

- Enhanced students' confidence in public speaking and academic research.
- Provided networking opportunities with academicians, researchers, and industry professionals.
- Encouraged students to explore interdisciplinary research and innovative ideas.
- Some students received special recognition or awards for their outstanding presentations.

Conclusion:

The participation in the inter-college conference was a great learning experience for the students. It not only improved their research and presentation skills but also motivated them to engage in further academic and professional development. The faculty and management appreciate the students' efforts and encourage more participation in future conferences.

Recommendations:

- Encourage more students to participate in upcoming conferences.
- Provide mentorship and training sessions for effective paper presentation.
- Collaborate with other institutions to organize similar academic events.

This event marked a significant step in fostering a research-oriented culture among students and reinforcing their academic excellence.
