HISTORICAL TRACK TRAVERSED BY PMIST

PeriyarManiammai Institute of Science & Technology (PMIST) has its organizational root from PeriyarManiammaiCollege of Technology for Women (PMCTW), the very first engineering college in the world exclusively for the women. Established during 1988, bearing the names of two great social reformers; E V Ramasamy widely respected as "ThanthaiPeriyar" and his philanthropic wife Annai Maniammai. PMIST has revolutionized women's education especially the Higher Studies in Engineering, Technology and Science. Approved by AICTE and functioned under various Universities like Bharathidasan University, Tiruchirapalli and Anna University during the transition period.

Periyar Maniammai Institute of Science & Technology has grown over the years, in leaps and bounds encompassing almost every sphere of technology which were once the domains exclusively for the males. The PeriyarManiammai Institute of Science & Technology is situated in a land area encompassing 114.65 acres. The institution has transformed this barren and almost inhospitable land stretch into an adorable lush green piece of land, environment free from pollution that makes it conducive for concentrated study. It has been excelling not only in the class room teaching but also in the areas of research and sponsored projects providing an ample opportunity for experimenting the learned concepts and aspects.
